

Anna Weinzierl is an associate at PARAGON Advocacy, an arbitration boutique law firm based in Vienna. Her practice focuses on the resolution of domestic and international disputes, specializing in commercial arbitration and litigation matters. She has represented clients and has acted as tribunal secretary in matters governed by various substantive and procedural laws and conducted under various institutional rules.

Prior to joining PARAGON, Anna Weinzierl gained experience working in a number of boutique law firms in Vienna where she focused on commercial arbitration and litigation as well as on general civil and corporate law matters.

Anna Weinzierl is a member of several international arbitration associations, such as the Young Austrian Arbitration Practitioners and the Willem C. Vis Moot Alumni Association. She co-authored and contributed to several articles and publications on dispute resolution.

She studied law in Austria (University of Vienna), where she was accepted into the University's honors program. During her studies, Anna Weinzierl also participated in the Willem C. Vis International Commercial Arbitration Moot where her team received several honours and awards for its outstanding performance and advanced to the quarter finals.
