

Lisa Berger is a senior associate at the Danish law firm Gorrissen Federspiel based in Copenhagen.

Lisa's practice is focused on international arbitration, where Lisa represents leading Danish and foreign companies in proceedings seated in Denmark, the Nordics and the DACH region. Lisa's litigation experience is focused. Lisa's advice encompasses the full cycle of a dispute, from early claims stages to post-award enforcement and challenge proceedings. Lisa's recent casework includes engineering disputes and construction disputes in the energy sector, and post-M&A and shareholder disputes in the semiconductor and biotech and agtech industries, as well as a complex project dispute in the financial services industry.

In addition to counsel work, Lisa is frequently appointed as tribunal secretary in international arbitrations under ICC, LCIA and all Nordic institutional rules seated in the EU and the Nordics. Lisa is a board member of Young Arbitrators Copenhagen and regularly speaks at conferences and publishes on arbitration related subjects.

Lisa holds a master's degree from University of Vienna and an LL.M. from Columbia University and has practiced in Denmark since 2018. Lisa is admitted as an attorney in New York and will be admitted as a Danish attorney in 2026. Lisa's working languages are English, German and Danish.
